Construction

Framed Framed Construction with 1 1/2" faceframe

In framed cabinetry, the cabinet doors are secured to the frame, which gives the cabinet strength and sturdiness

Faceframes are constructed of 3/4" thick solid wood in the same species as the doors joined with glue and pocket screws

When thermofoil door is selected, the faceframe will be constructed of solid 3/4" thick paint grade solid wood with a paint matching the color selected. All cabinet sides, tops and bottoms are dadoed and stapled into the faceframe

Butt doors on faceframe are available on cabinets up to 36"

Cabinets over 36 1/16" will be produced with a center stile

Frameless Frameless Construction

In frameless construction, cabinets do not have a face frame attached to the front of the cabinet box

Butt doors on all frameless cabinets are standard

Cabinets over 36 1/16" will be produced with a partition

Door Overlay

Full Overlay 1 1/4" overlay

Expose 1/4"

A full overlay is a cabinet door that covers the cabinet's entire face frame

Standard 1/2" Overlay 1/2" overlay

Expose 1"

Standard overlay cabinets tend to be less expensive and do not require hardware because there is enough finger space on the side of the cabinet door or drawer face

Lipped Overlay 3/4

Expose 1 1/8"

This type of overlay gives a full view of the cabinet frame, with only minimal spacing or gaps between the cabinet components

Inset

Expose 1 1/2", gap 1/8"

This type of overlay gives a full view of the cabinet frame, with only minimal spacing or gaps between the cabinet components

Beaded Inset

Expose 1 1/2", gap 1/8"

This type of overlay gives a full view of the cabinet frame with bead, with only minimal spacing or gaps between the cabinet components

Alder

Alder, a member of the Birch family, is a moderately light hardwood which is cream colored when newly cut and turns a pink orange while being worked. This color “bleeding” causes a mature wood to be beautifully tinted and veined. Alder is much sought after by furniture makers because of these distinctive characteristics.

Birch

This wood can vary from light brown tinged with either pinkish or grayish undertones with a thin, nearly white sapwood. It is a close-grained wood with a distinct, but not prominent pattern.

Cherry

Most people visualize Cherry with a reddish brown color. This is indeed the tone most often seen in Cherry furniture. A fair amount of Cherry also has a distinctively grayish cast, others have a light straw color. The freshly cut heartwood is usually light amber in tone, but darkens considerably with age and exposure to sunlight. Cherry sapwood is even lighter in color, from white to a light cherry brown. Cherry also often has black “pitch marks” which appear as a small dark colored line. This is not considered a defect, but is in fact inherent to Cherry wood. Cherry is strong, stiff, and moderately hard.

Hickory

Hickory can vary dramatically in color within a single piece of wood, from almost white to a deep, dark brown. Hickory's bold, prominent grain patterns give it a rustic appearance. Burls, pin knots, mineral streaks and small, sound knots are typical and are not considered defects.

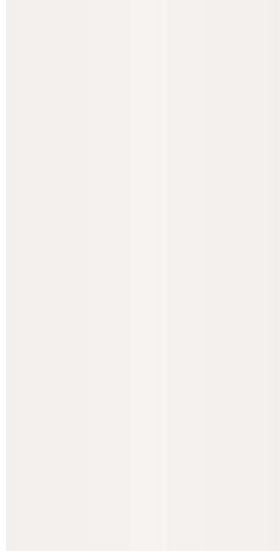

Maple

Maple has a smooth texture with tight, uniform grain patterns that make it ideal for painting. It is generally creamy white, varying slightly from almost bright white to light pink or reddish brown. Maple contains a natural resin that causes wood to turn amber as it ages. This change, which is accelerated by exposure to natural light, is more noticeable with lighter stains. Maple may occasionally contain small mineral streaks that form naturally when trees absorb minerals from the soil.

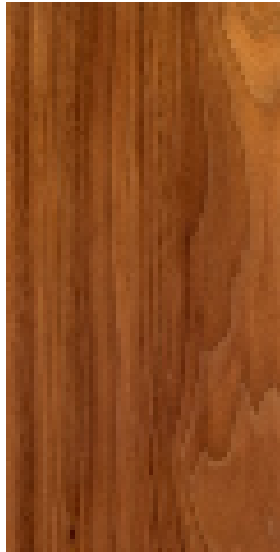

Oak

Oak is characterized by its open grain patterns, which vary from close-knit and vertical, to prominent and arched, with colors ranging from light tan and pink to medium dark red and brown. Oak may contain small mineral streaks and some pin knots.

Thermofoil

Our thermofoil selection includes a variety of solids (matte and gloss) and realistic woodgrains in thicknesses ranging from 8 mil to 30 mil. Woodgrain foils provide a realistic-looking durable alternative to diminishing hardwood resources.

Walnut

Walnut varies from light gray-brown, to chocolate brown, even to a dark purplish brown. Grain patterns will vary strongly from piece to piece and can be very plain or highly figured.

Glazing

None

Dark Glazing
Dark glazes are meant to dark highlight the different edges on a piece of cabinetry. They can be applied to both stain and paint finishes.

Glazing

Light Glazing

Light glazes are meant to light highlight the different edges on a piece of cabinetry. They can be applied to both stain and paint finishes.

Finish Technique

Distressing Heavy

Heavy Distressing is a finish process created by physically distressing wood for an aged appearance. Heavy Distressing characteristics include sanded corners/Profiles, small dings and dents, rasping, worm holes, chisel marks and knife splits. In addition to physical distressing elements, a glazed brush spatter is applied.

Distressing Antique

Antique Distressing is a finish process created by lightly distressing wood for a subtle worn appearance. Antique Distressing characteristics include sanded corners/profiles of doors and drawer fronts, as well as small dings and dents.

Sanding

Heavy Sanding of edges and corners before staining and top coating.

Rustic

Rustic wood has the added character of knots, splits, worm holes, and light and dark spots.

Knife Scratch

Birdpecks

Eased Edges

Lightly sand the edges and corners prior to staining and top coating.

Gouges

Gouging edges prior to staining and top coating.

Finish Technique

Awlholes

Jabbing with an Awl prior to staining and top coating.

Cracks

Cracks simulate wood splits and are also done to the raw wood.

Crackle

Crackle painting is a technique used to give painted surfaces a worn and aged look.

Vell

Chisel

A sharp wood chisel can cut mortises, shave rough surfaces, chop out corners and scrape off glue.
